

Obituary for UKIP Member - Jeremy Allison

It is my unfortunate duty to inform you that Jeremy Allison passed away in early July after a short battle with cancer. He was a UKIP Member and activist in Berkshire and teacher in the various private schools in the locality. Upon moving to Seaton to retire in 2001, he quickly became immersed in the local political scene. Along with his great friend Alec Yates he instigated the creation of UKIP Axe Valley and by holding regular meetings encouraged a number of local UKIP members to become involved. He stood as the UKIP candidate in numerous local elections, both as a serious contender and in his latter years as a Democracy candidate. He was for many years our local Deputy Nominated Officer for elections, where his organisation skills and his knowledge of the electoral system were invaluable to the many candidates who were standing for election for the first time.

Among his other interests, he was in his youth a keen and talented cricketer, who in his later years transferred his skills to the art of Bowling where he became captain of Seaton Bowls club.

He will be sorely missed by family, friends, colleagues and local UKIP members.
